Nine hundred rebel prisoners arrived at Nashville on Saturday morning from Atlants; thinking the place evacuated they rushed in to pillage and plunder and were captured.

The rebel sympathizers in Nashville are gloomy and disconsolate in consequence of an-sometimes strangely observing, and again are strangely neglectful.

On the morning of the 7th inst, we heard very familiar sounds. At about daylight the booming of cennon and the rattling sound of picket guns could be distinctly heard from any part of the city. Two gnns were fired by the rehels (who were composed of about three hundred cavalrymen) from a point near the railread which leads to Decatur. Shortly after four similar reprits, in quick succession, were heard in a direction almost due west of the city, where the greater portion of the rehels were

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1864.

At the dinner given last week by the mer chants of Boston to Captain Winslow and his associates, of the steamer Kearsarge, the following toast was proposed and received with

The President of the United States—Called for the second time to the most exalted office in the gift of the people, may be so administer the high trust as to receive the support of the whole country, and restore to the Union the blessings of a speedy, honorable, and lasting peace. The Hon. Edward Everett was called upon to respond to the sentiment, and, in the conrse of his remarks, he expressed a confidence that the toast would be welcomed by all, though differences of political opinion might prevail; it was a mark of respect to the President, not as the successful candidate after a severely contested election, but as the constitutional head of the Government of the country, the supreme Executive officer of the United States, the Conimander-in-Chief of the army and navy, and the personal representative of the people in the family of nations. But our attention was called to the closing passage of Mr. Everett's speech

The election, in all hut its formalities, is decided. It is due to both parties to say that they accept the result, the one its detect and the other its victory, with moderation and equantity. It is in this spirit alone that our common country can be carried through its great trial. The last hope of the hostile leaders is in our divisions. With sure indications of a cordial union on our part, "down their idle weapons will drap," or be wreated from their hands by the indignant and weary masses whom they have betrayed into this desolating war. Let us, then, study the things that make for peace, in the first instance with each other, as the surest means of an honorable and a lasting peace with our deluded countrymen. It rejoiced my heart the other evening at the opening of the Fair to be followed on the platform by my life-long friend, Winthrop, who filled the same place on the unsuccessful The election, in all hut its formalities, is deon the platform by my ine-long triend, whithrop, who filled the same place on the insuccessful electoral ticket that I do in that which has prevailed, and whose admirable speech commanded the entire sympathy of the audience. We are for conclliation after the bitter politieal struggle, and we agree fully with Colonel Forney in his Washington Chronicle when he appeals to those who supported General Me-Clellar-"Let us forget everything but that we are making commou cause against our misguided countrymen who would not submit to the popular verdict. Let us loose sight of partisan feeling and partisan contention. Let us end this war. Let us stand shoulder to shoulder in a nrited e lort to bring about a cessation of hostilities by scattering the armies of the rebellion. Ferget you that you ever said a condemnatory word of our method of quelling insurrection, and we will forget that we ever censured your of position. Let us throw the might of a united | cople into this great strife, and th nation will triumph." This is the proper spirit of appeal, and when the Chronicle asks for the Administration-"'Let us fight it out on this line' as with the energy of one man, and peace will soon spread her white wings over the land; at least give our policy a fair trial-give it ungrudgingly"-we will do so, in the full belief that it is the course of wisdom and of patriotism.

The telegraphic agents for the press sent us, yesterday, news from Nashville by the way liable for all mischief done by railroads running of Cincinnati, and from Sherman's movements by the way of Washington and New York. The Times, of the latter city, gave full information that Sherman has with him the 14th, 15th, 16th, late upon railrond companies. Cattle ready 17th, and 20th army corps, and 9,000 picked cavalry under Kilpatrick, making the effective force nearly 60,000. Now, we have letters from onr correspondents, giving us full details of all Sherman's preparations, and of his intentions to the owner, would be seenred so that it could as far as they were developed, but their publica tion would have been regarded here as prejudielal to the public interest, and were therefore forwarded to us for our private information, out of the paper. We cannot under stand why the Eastern press should be permitted to publish ne vs whi h we are en joined from using. When once made public the telegraph diffuses it all over the country and the enemy would obtain it just as soon it printed in New York originally as in Louisville We have been frequently mortified to find intel ligence transmitted from Chicago or New York, which was in our possession several days previously, and the public regarded this as a want of enterprise on our part. We have always had a full staff of correspondents in the field, but sometimes for weeks they were not allowed to send us anything for publication, while in the meantime other writers have sent off their letters to the Eastern cities and their news came back to us by telegraph. There is something radically wrong in all this, and we hope a corrective will be applied. We have adhered most faithfall to the requests of Generals commanding in aband we presume he has the ascendant of the staining from publishing anything that could possibly prove detrimental to the cause, and ye we have been looked upon with suspicion.

The true el General Lyon, dated at his headquarters scout is always a hero; yet he often fiells while in the performance of 1's duty, and the world knows nothing of his history.

Meade county Home Guards on Saturday was a man who styled himself Captain Jones. On his at Park, Tennessee. Cal tain Jones was directed to proceed to Kentneky for the purpose of ohtaining recruits for the Confederate service. The order is couched in bombastic words, and should be preserved as a enriosity. The style of diction is original, and the ideas promulgated are quite novel. The line of duty laid down for Captain Jones to pursue is somewhat complicated, and he should thank his lucky stars for being captured, as this alone will release him from his very embarrassing situation. If General Lyon expected him strictly to obey orders, he must have had an exalted opinlon of the man, or he was making him the innocent victim of a monstrous joke. The Captain was sent into Kentucky without a command. He was expected to organize a force and overcome difficulties that would have appalled a mind possessed of the genius and service, and was the companion of many an adenergy of a Napoleon. He was directed to establish his headquarters near the hanks of Salt | Brown, of Georgia, who seems to bear a River, and all territory east of that stream was | charmed life. To record all of the adventures to be under his special control. He was clothed with plenary powers. He was ordered to enforce the conscription law, as passed by the Confederate Congress, and forward the recruits and conscripts to the General's headquarters at Paris. Think, oh, Kentuckians, what a terrible at Dallas, offered a reward of fifty thousand fate you have escaped in the capture of the chivalric Jones, by the gallant Home Guards of Meade county! You never knew the dangers that surrounded you-what a terrible cloud was hanging over your heads! The Home Guards have to the Union lines with valuable information, averted a sad calamity by making a prisoner of the great chief clothed with authority to tear you from your homes, from the embrace of your sweethearts, wives, and children, and hurry you, without a word of warning, or a moment's preparation, into the ranks of the rebel army, and o the dangers of the tented field. Gen. Lyon had implicit comidence in Capt. Jones, or he would never have entrusted him with the execution of an order of so much importance. The Captain prides himself on being a soldier, and | feat the plans of the enemy. we have reason to believe that he would have proved faithful to the trust. He would have enforced the mereiless conscription to the very cter; how, it is his husiness, not the General, or onrs. With Federal drafts and rebel conscription, the State would soon have been depol ulated of its able-bodied men, and the women and children would have been left to struggle and buffet with the world alone. We have indeed made a narrow escape. The gulf that was yawring to receive us was almost as black and terrible as the one which to fre quently threate is to swallow Chicago, Cleveland, Buffelo, and all of the lake share towns. The people of that region grow excited after the danger is over: then why should not we? They spend sleepless pights in thinking of what is to be: then why should we not worry about what might have been? We have as good a right and as good a cause to grow excited and render thanks for our deliverance from a great danger as our lake-shore friends have. Another class of people shoul I rejpice at the capture of Captain Jones. The outlaw hands roaning throughout our State have escaped arnihilation. The C ptain was ordered to wage a warfare up on gueri la bands, and exterminate them from the face of the earth. Great man, indeed, was the valiant Capt. Jones. and far greater is his chief, chivalric General Lyon. Wonderful man, mighty master! Noble General, gallant Captain! The people of Kentucky will long bear you in kind remembrance We have escaped a thraldom-the hour of dan ger is past-the future again is hright with safety and hope! Sing hosanuas to the Meade

It is not, however, difficult to imagine that he will he in a desperate strai for winter supplies for his army, nuless he makes some bold strike for a new source. Forces are, we learn, being concentrated rapidly at a point beyond Lexington to counteract his movements and there ought to be no great difficulty in keeping his hungry horde in the mud and knobs o the Cumberland's headwaters until they eave in SHOT AND KILLED. - About four o'clock yester day morning, a drafted man named Calvin P. Middleton, from Marien, Grant county, Ind. was shot and killed by the guard at the Ex hange Barracks. Middleton, with a number of drafted men, was received at the Barracks on Sunday. Early yesterday morning, he, with a number of his comrades, approached one of the windows, and remalued there in violation of positive orders. The guard on duty at the post commanded the men to leave the window which they refused to do. They treated all of his orders with contempt, and insulted him with oaths and ellprobrious names. Maddened by their insolent manner, the scutinel raised his gnn and fired. The ball struck Middleton in the head, passing through it, and producing instant death. The soldier who fired the shot is from Indiana, and one of the detail that gnarded the prisoners to the city. He was justified in firing upon the unruly men.

GEN. GILLIM'S DO FEAT. - We have had meagre reports from various sources in regard to the defeat of Gen. Gillem by the rebels at Bull's Gap, but have been furnished with nothing definite in relation to the affair. We learn that Gen. Breckinridge, with ten thousand men, made the attack on Gillem, whose force did not number more than twenty-five hundred, and, after a sharp fight, routed blin, capturing six picees of artillery, and about four hundred prisoners. Gen. Gillem, it appears, was surprised. out numbered, and badly whipped. He, however, has rallied his forces, and again presents a bold front to the rebel army.
